SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

Look years younger. Use the old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and nobody will know.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a 2-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old, famous Sage Tea Recipe are sold annually, says a well known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful—all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

This is the age of gray. Gray-haired, unattractive folks are wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

To Lecture at Y. M. C. A. Tonight. Charles S. Donaldson, chief of the division of consular affairs of the Department of Commerce, is to lecture at the Y. M. C. A. tonight on "Foreign Commercial Conditions and Opportunities." The lecture is one of the series very brightest part of the morning to call his relatives over to torment poor Hooley. Jolly, round, bright, Mr. Sun was shining his very brightest, and the white snow on the ground made it seem brighter still. Even Blacky would blink and he knew that poor Hooley would hardly be able to see at all.

But one thing Blacky was very careful not to do, and that was to let Mrs. Hooley know that he was there. Mrs. Hooley was right close at hand. Mrs. Hooley is bigger and even more fierce than Hooley, and Blacky didn't want to frighten any of the more timid of his relatives. What he hoped right down in his crafty heart was that when they got to teasing and tormenting Hooley and making a great racket which he knew they would Mrs. Hooley would slip over to the nest and perhaps both of the eggs he knew were there.

When they reached the tree where Hooley was he was blinking his great yellow eyes and had fluffed out all of his feathers, which is a way he has when he is angry to make himself look twice as big as he really is. Of course, he had heard the noisy crew coming, and he knew well enough what to expect. As soon as they saw him they began to scream as loud as ever they could and to call him all manner of names. The boldest of them would dart at him as if to pull out a mouthful of fat, and the others would follow him and to call him all manner of names. The boldest of them would dart at him as if to pull out a mouthful of fat, and the others would follow him and to call him all manner of names.

So Blacky let the way over to the most lonesome corner of the Green Forest, straight to the tree in which Hooley the Owl was comfortably sleeping. Blacky had taken pains to steal over and make sure just where he was early that morning. He had discovered Hooley fast asleep in his nest, and he would remain right where he was until dark. You know Hooley's eyes were

When Blacky cries, "Caw, caw, caw, caw" as if he'd discovered his law. He waits then with a crafty air.

They know that there is mischief afoot, and the Crow family is always ready for mischief. So on this particular morning, when they heard Blacky cawing at the top of his lungs from the tallest pine tree in the Green Forest, they hastened over there as fast as they could fly, calling to each other excitedly, and sure that they were going to have a good time of some kind.

Blacky chuckled as he saw them coming. "Come on! Come on! Caw, caw, caw! Hurry up and flap your wings faster. I know where Hooley the Owl is, and we'll have no end of fun with him. In this bright sun he'll be blind as a bat," he cried.

"Caw, caw, caw, caw, caw, caw!" shouted all his relatives, in great glee. "Where is he? Lead us to him! We'll drive him out of the Green Forest!"
